

Benjamin Breit

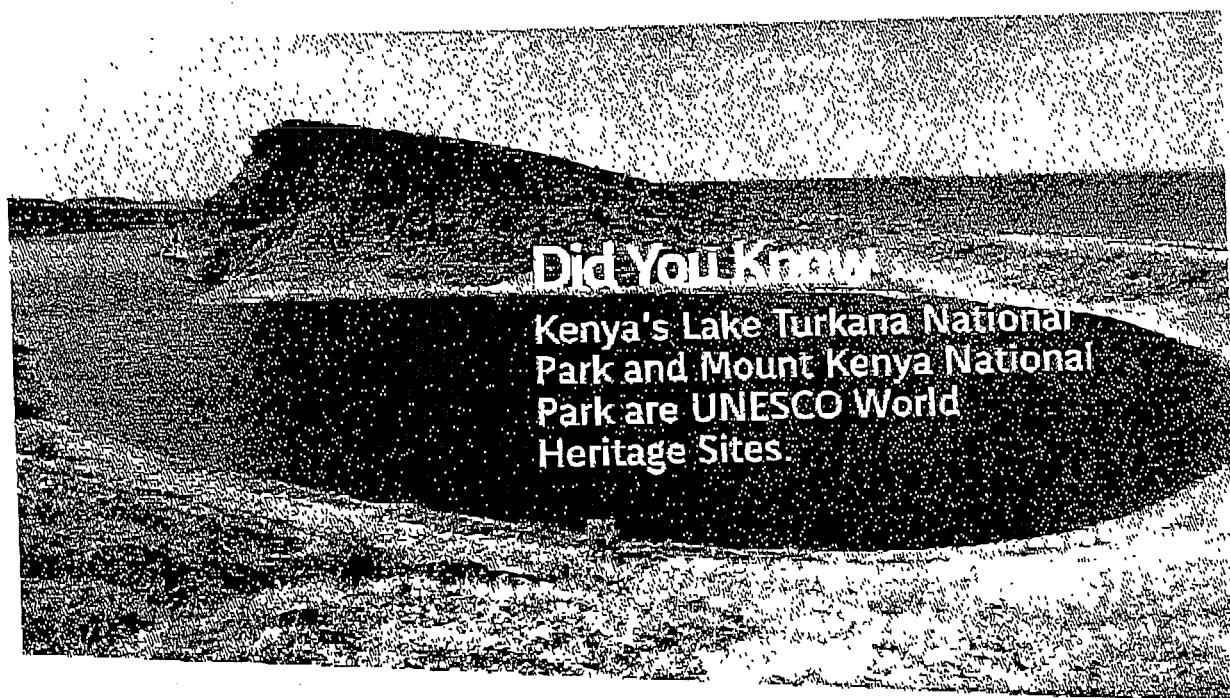

From: Ana Kolodzinski [akolodzinski@clsdc.com]

Sent: Thursday, May 20, 2010 10:22 AM

To: Kenya

Subject: Kenya's Lake Turkana National Park and Mount Kenya National Park are UNESCO World Heritage Sites.

Not seeing images? View online.

50 FACTS ON KENYA

To learn more about Kenya visit www.kenya.info.

- Inaugurated as a world heritage site in 1997, Lake Turkana, Africa's most saline lake, is commonly used as a laboratory for the study of plant and animal communities.
- The national parks serve as a stopover for migrant waterfowl and are major breeding grounds for the Nile crocodile, hippopotamus and a variety of venomous snakes.
- The deposits from Lake Koobi Fora are rich in mammalian and molluscan fossils, and have contributed to the understanding of paleo environments more than any other site on the continent.

Source: UNESCO World Heritage Centre
<http://whc.unesco.org/en/statesparties/ke>
<http://whc.unesco.org/en/list/801>

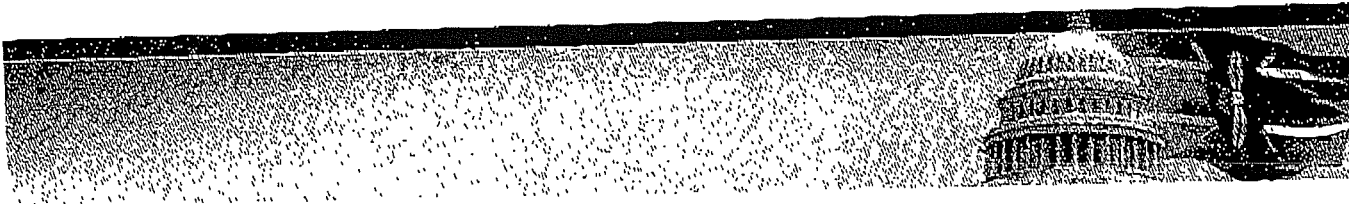

NSD/CES/REGISTRATION
UNIT
2011 MAY 21 AM 11:37

*This material is distributed by Chlopak, Leonard, Schechter & Associates on behalf of the Office of the President of the Republic of Kenya.
Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.*

This email was sent to kenya@clsdc.com. You can instantly unsubscribe from these emails by clicking here.

Afrique en ligne

U.S. Ambassador Praises Kenyan Constitution

May 19, 2010

United States Ambassador to Kenya Michael Ranneberger expressed firm support for Kenya's Draft Constitution while pledging to strengthen their partnership due to the increasingly critical role Kenya is playing in American foreign policy.

The Ambassador made the remarks following a Monday meeting with Kenyan Foreign Minister Moses Wetang'ula. The diplomats discussed issues of Kenyan-American partnership, including the U.S.-supported Draft Constitution, which will come to a national referendum in August.

Ambassador Ranneberger commended Kenya for the stabilizing role it plays in East Africa with regards to safety and security. Kenya manages several enormous refugee camps on the border of civil war-devastated Somalia and is one of two counties in Africa that prosecutes pirates.

On the heels of this meeting, the Ambassador held an online public chat Tuesday to discuss the Draft Constitution. He stepped up his rhetoric, effusively and unambiguously praising the document while offering American support throughout the process.

"As Kenya's most important partner and friend, we have made clear our determination to press for full implementation of the Reform Agenda," he said. "We have consistently emphasized that implementation of the reform agenda is essential to ensure the future democratic stability and prosperity of the country. A new constitution will strengthen democracy and prosperity by creating a framework to protect the interests of all Kenyans."

Ambassador Ranneberger noted that the United States has pledged over $2 million to fund civic education regarding the contents of the document. He noted that President Obama himself has been closely following the referendum process and firmly supports the Draft Constitution as written.

2011 MAY 21 AM 11:37

NSD/CES/REGISTRATION
UNIT

To read the entire web chat, please click here.

To read the entire article, please click here.

For more information, please contact Ben Breit at (202) 777-3514 or bbreit@clsdc.com.

This material is distributed by Chlopak, Leonard, Schechter & Associates on behalf of the Office of the President of the Republic of Kenya. Additional information is available at the Department of Justice, Washington, DC.